A Father's Prayer

Lord, make me tolerant and wise;
Incline my ears to hear him through;
Let him not stand with downcast eyes
Fearing to trust me and be true.
Instruct me so that I may know
The way my son and I should go.

When he shall err, as once did I,
Or boyhood folly bids him stray,
Let me not into anger fly
And drive the good in him away.
Teach me to win his trust, that he Shall keep no secret hid from me.

Lord, strengthen me that I may be
A fit example for my son.
Grant he may never hear or see
A shameful deed that I have done.
However sorely I am tried,
Let me not undermine his pride.

In spite of years and temples gray,
Still let my spirit beat with joy;
Teach me to share in all his play
And be a comrade with my boy.
Wherever we may chance to be,
Let him find happiness with me.

Lord, as his father, now I pray
For manhood's strength and counsel wise;
Let me deal justly, day by day,
In all that fatherhood implies.
To be his father, keep me fit;
Let me not play the hypocrite!

The Love of Christ for His Father

The heart of Christ is an immense furnace of love. The great love of Christ is that which He bears toward His Father. All His life can be summed up in these words: "I do always the things that please My Father."

Let us meditate these words in our prayer: only thus shall we be able to penetrate a little into their secret. This unspeakable love, this tending of the Soul of Christ towards His Father is the necessary consequence of His hypostatic union. The Son is altogether ad Patrem, as the theologians say this is, if I may thus express it, His essence; the holy Humanity is carried along by this divine current; having become, by the Incarnation, the Humanity of the Son of God, it therefore belongs entirely to the Father. The fundamental disposition, the primary and habitual sentiment of the Soul of Christ is necessarily this: I live for My Father, "I love my Father." It is because He loves His Father that Jesus gives Himself up to all He wills.

Remember Dad

Why not make this a real Father's Day? Let our affection, respect, and devotion put him upon the pedestal he deserves. The niche you accord him in your heart will mark the difference between desolation and exultation for him. He didn't let the "big days" in your life pass unnoticed – will you be any less a good sport?

Whatever you do make it a happy day. Put the best of yourself into it. If Dad likes fishing, pack up the old "jalopy" and hike to his favorite spot. If he's a modern who prefers swimming or golf, go along if you enjoy it too. If not, say, "I'll be waiting for you." Maybe a game of horseshoes or listening to the radio and talking over his favorite program would suit him better. Perhaps he'd like his family to attend church with him. What a surprise if you'd set your alarm and be ready! In short, whether his taste runs to romping or reminiscing, stand by! You'll never be sorry.

If you no longer have the blessed privilege of spending the day with a living Dad, remember to breathe a prayer for him. Perhaps you could brighten the day for a "forgotten" Dad. We all know several whose families are no longer living or who have carelessly drifted away. Just offering your hand to a lonely soul, with a few words kindly spoken, will not only give him a lift but yourself as well; for any thoughtful deed, however small, will be reflected. Whatever you do, say a prayer!

A Father's Prayer to St. Joseph

O holy Joseph, thou faithful companion of the Blessed Mother, thou who didst protect her and her Divine Child with such care, and didst devote thy whole life to them; I beseech thee to be also my and my children's protector and advocate with Jesus thy adopted Son. Obtain for me the grace to fulfill my duties to my children as thou and Mary have done to Jesus. St. Joseph, pray for me. Amen.

Sacred Heart Prayer for Holy Mass

O Eternal Father, permit me to offer to Thee the Heart of Jesus Christ, Thy well-beloved Son, as He offers Himself to Thee in sacrifice. Graciously receive this offering on my behalf and receive all the desires, sentiments, and affections, all the movements and acts of this Sacred Heart. They are all mine, since He immolates Himself for me, and since I intend to have no other desires henceforth but His. Receive them in satisfaction for my sins, and in thanksgiving for all His benefits. Graciously receive then, all the merits of the Sacred Heart of Thy Divine Son which I offer, and grant me in return all the graces of which I stand in need, especially the grace of final perseverance. Receive them as so many acts of love, adoration and praise which I offer to Thy Divine Majesty, since it is by thy Divine Son alone that Thou art worthily honored and glorified. Amen.

He Died His Ransomer to Be

Consider from what slavery Christ has redeemed us: from the power of the wicked, from the deceits of the Devil, from the misery of hell and its eternal torments. The most dreadful sufferings of earth can never be compared to those of hell. At what cost were we saved from this? What did our Savior give for ransom? View Calvary's heights, and you have the answer.

The answer lies in the cross, which stands not inglorious on the Mount of Golgotha. No, it is gloriously immortal! It stands not for conquest so much as for love, not for death but for life. For it is life that He who hangs upon it gives, though He dies thereon a shameful and agonizing death. The nails, the lance, the crown, the tree, all are instruments of the shame, as well as cruel torture, of this death; but see how He transforms them into instruments of love.

The arms are outstretched and the hands are nailed that they may never close their wide embrace for you. The Heart is pierced that all its blood may cleanse you and bring you joy. The head is crowned as symbol of His kingship of love, and no earthly king has such a realm. His body, resting in death upon the wood of the tree, sanctifies and glorifies it. The tree alone was found worthy to sustain a God upon it; forever will it stand gloriously silhouetted against the setting sun, so that we may lift our eyes to it in reverence. "O noble tree," we cry in the hymn of the Feast of the Holy Cross, "in all our woods there is none like thee!"

On the final day, as now, the cross will be the sign of salvation to those who have seen with eyes of faith, to those who have loved the Sacred Heart that shed its last drop of blood upon it.

Note from Father

My Dear Faithful,

It was very edifying to see so much interest in the enrollment in the Miraculous Medal. At least half the parish, probably more, was enrolled in it last Sunday. I am glad that the Sisters of St. Thomas Aquinas gave the "assignment" to our online homeschoolers to be enrolled since it has obviously brought many graces to all of you as well. Wear your medals devoutly and with prayerful remembrance of Our Lady.

When I arrived at the Cincinnati airport last Monday I discovered that I had drained the car battery by leaving my headlights on (not a very smart thing to do)! So I called AAA and the two young fellows who came out – I'm not sure why it took two men in separate trucks to come and charge my battery – got there a little while later. When they arrived they saw me in my clerical vest, white shirt and Roman collar since I had removed my suitcoat because of the heat. Well, one of the young men asked me very seriously, "So, what are you? A chef?" I explained politely that I am a priest; he took it all in though I'm not sure he understood! It is a funny little anecdote, but it is also quite scary. It shows that the young people these days cannot even recognize a priest. See how badly Vatican II has infected society!?

Although Vatican II has taken away the Mass, Our Lady has promised that one day she would save the world through her Rosary and Scapular. I was a witness to this on the airplane the other day. I sat next to an elderly lady in a very nice dress – something you don't often see in the airport. I noticed that she was reading about Our Lady and how to pray the Rosary well. Then, out came her Beads and she began praying to Our Lady. I was so impressed with this and I am sure Our Lady will see this woman to heaven.

Do pray for Gerald Lee Jones, the father of Annie Gardner. You might know Annie from the Effingham Mission. Her father is dying and is in need of your prayers. He was just baptized a couple of days ago.

Yours in the Sacred Heart of Jesus,
Fr. McGuire
